

Books about starting school

We know that starting school is a very big milestone in a child and their family's life. Sharing books about starting school is a great way to engage and show children they are not alone and that starting school happens to everyone! We share lots of these stories in class at the beginning of their new adventure with us so we thought it would be great to share some with you so they have lots of familiar experiences when they begin with us. You may have some already on your book shelves. If not, they can be bought from a retailer on the high street or online, if you wish. Alternatively you can search for the titles online and there you will find many video links to them also. We hope you find the information useful. Happy reading 😊
